AURA

The receptionist on your number.

Someone phones your business. Aura answers in your name, asks the questions for your kind of work, and puts the booking or the message on your desk. You can also tell Aura to phone someone for you.

WHEN A CUSTOMER CALLS

- Answers with your business name, any hour.
- Asks the questions set for your trade.
- Books the visit you defined, for the length you set.
- Or takes a message and a number to call back.

ON YOUR DESK

- You log in and see only your business.
- The diary shows what was booked.
- Messages sit in one list.
- You tell Aura who to call, when, and what to say.

SET UP ONCE

- Your number, the voice, and how Aura speaks.
- Your visit types and how long each one takes.
- The questions a caller must answer.
- A doctor is not set up as a plumber. You can change the small things. You do not change the trade.

WHAT IT DOES NOT DO

- It does not replace you with the customer in the room.
- It does not use your private diary for another business.
- It does not invent a free time. If the slot is taken, it says so.

A NORMAL DAY

1. They dial your number.
2. Aura answers as your receptionist.
3. The booking or the message is on your desk.
4. If you asked Aura to call someone, it phones them and follows your instruction.

One number. One receptionist. You stay in charge of the work.
