AURA

The call you missed was the job you lost.

Aura sits on your business number. It answers when you are with someone else, after hours, or on the road. The booking is made. The message is kept. You get the hour back, and the customer does not phone the next business.

THE CALL

It answers in your name. It asks the questions for your kind of work, books the right visit for the right length, or takes a name and a number. No one hears a ring and gives up.

THE TIME

You stop being the switchboard. "What time are you free?" and "please call me back" no longer land on you. You stay with the person in front of you.

THE WORK

A caller who reaches no one spends the money somewhere else. Aura puts that person on your diary. You can also tell Aura to phone someone at a set time and say exactly what you want said.

Your number. Answered.
The hour is yours. The job stays yours.
